

For Immediate Release

Media Contact:

Tom Militello
888.481.8433
mello@palmettofuelcell.com

Palmetto Fuel Cell Technologies Announces Start-Up Operations in Columbia, SC

Columbia, S.C. – September 26, 2005 - Palmetto Fuel Cell Technologies LLC (PFCT) a services and technology development company announced today that it has established its operations in Columbia, South Carolina. “We have been working closely for some time with several University of South Carolina professors and believe that Columbia is a community that goes the extra mile to support start-up technology companies,” said Tom Militello, Palmetto Fuel Cell Technologies Chief Operations Officer, “our roots are firmly planted in the Palmetto State, home to some of the world’s most innovative fuel cell and hydrogen technology research centers.”

About Palmetto Fuel Cell Technologies LLC

Palmetto Fuel Cell Technologies is focused on serving the emerging fuel cell and hydrogen economy with innovative designs, technologies and component products that provide lower cost, higher reliability and broader market commercialization capability for fuel cell systems. The company supports world-wide commercial and consumer electronics companies in their development and manufacturing of next generation fuel cell technologies. For more information visit www.palmettofuelcell.com

###